Full Stack Developer · Node.js & React · Building AI-Integrated Web Applications

Delhi, India

Summary

Full Stack Developer with hands-on production experience building web applications using Node.js, React, Express, MongoDB and Postgres . Currently a Software Engineer at Unifyed, contributing to a SaaS platform serving the higher education sector. Beyond standard full-stack work, I'm actively building at the intersection of AI and web development — exploring RAG pipelines, LLM integration, vector search, and embedding-based systems to create intelligent, data-driven applications. I bring strong fundamentals in REST API design, component-based React architecture, and NoSQL data modeling — paired with a product-first mindset focused on building things people actually find useful. Open to roles where I can contribute to AI-integrated products, developer tooling, or full-stack engineering at scale.
